Lympstone Entertainments presents a musical entertainment celebrating Devon's most famous drink which will be performed by Paul Downes, Heather Redding and Graham Banks in Lympstone Village Hall on Twelfth Night – but at lunchtime!

It features cider songs and sketches that tell the story of cider making in the county, and champion real farm cider as opposed to the fizzy commercial version.

Twelfth Night is traditionally the time for wassailing your apple trees, to make sure that they bear lots of fruit, and the show starts with a wassailing song and lots of noise to frighten the devil out of the trees. "Give I a gallon of cider" is the refrain of one of the songs, and under its influence we meet Farmer Tasker, who pays his workers in cider; a true blood Romany gypsy, first class, weaned on cider; and the marketing executive of Crossbow Cider, Mr Norman Pretence: “Crossbow shoots a bolt through your thirst!”

Originally devised and written by actors of the Orchard Theatre Company in 1979, it toured the pubs of North Devon and beyond. Directed then, as now, by Harland Walshaw, it was a popular success for the Beaford Centre’s professional touring theatre.

It’s almost time again for one of the highlights of the village’s entertainment calendar, the annual Village Concert presented by Lympstone Entertainments. This show features a variety of comedy, song, drama and music, all provided by stars and performers from our very own village!

You may be surprised to see your fellow villagers as you have never seen them before.

This really is Lympstone providing entertainment for itself!

It’s also worth knowing that proceeds go towards bringing professional performances to the village throughout the year. Do come along and help us provide lots more entertainment for Lympstone – an exciting programme for 2019 is already taking shape.
